STC Healthcare Construction Team Earns ASHE Certification

Williamsburg, VA –

Members of the Scott Thomas Construction, Inc. (STC) Estimating and Construction teams recently attended an ASHE (the American Society of Health Care Engineering) Conference to earn certification in Healthcare Construction.

The conference, which took place in Philadelphia on September 5th, 6th, and 7th, covered a variety of topics:

- Infectious Disease Management
- Infection Control Risk Assessment (the ICRA process)
- Planning, Design, Construction, & Maintenance Issues
- Challenges in Dealing with Mold
- Codes and Standards

STC, a company recognized nationally for providing general contracting services to retail and restaurant chains began working with healthcare clients in 2006. "STC's construction experts masterfully handle complex projects under the pressure of aggressive schedules and budgets," said Bruce Lowe, STC's COO. He continued, "These are skills that all of our clients, regardless of their industry, value; however, we also recognize that there are a number of great learning opportunities that will even better prepare us to manage our clients' very specific challenges. The ASHE Conference was one of those opportunities."
